

A History of Circle of Security - Parenting in Nebraska

2017
January 2017, consultation groups begin in Nebraska
A second Facilitator training was held in Lincoln, NE and 96 individuals were trained

2014
In 2014, a four-day COS-P facilitator training was held in Nebraska and 114 individuals were trained

2013
Later in 2013, a separate group convened to discuss bringing the COS-P facilitator training to Nebraska to train a larger cohort of facilitators

2012-2013
Several individuals from his region of the state went to the facilitator training and grant funding was secured to offer classes

2011
Circle of Security-Parenting (COS-P) classes began taking place in Nebraska after a Psychologist attends a training out of state

2016
A one-day Booster training was held to support current COS-P facilitators with Deidre Quinlan, a COS-P trainer

2015
Support was continued for the 130 current facilitators in the state including conference calls, newsletters, and a newly developed Nebraska COS-P website

2017-2018
Currently, COS-P is being implemented statewide within agencies and by independent facilitators

2018
In 2018, a contract was developed between the Nebraska Association for the Education of Young Children to streamline the process enabling families referred by the NE Department of Health and Human Services to access COS-P classes.

- The Nebraska Department of Education, Office of Special Education (Part C) provided funding for scholarships which supported 80 individuals to attend from across the state.
- Since 2014, Rooted in Relationships (RiR) continued to provide systems-level support for COS-P. Support was provided through building a stronger statewide website (www.necosp.org), utilizing common evaluation and marketing tools, convening a state level COS-P leadership team, distributing a quarterly newsletter.
- RiR continued to build capacity for reflective consultation to support facilitators via a pilot process approved by Circle of Security International. Full implementation of this model began in 2017. (See page 10 for more information)